

FIFTH DEFENSE

No act, omission or combination of acts or omissions on the part of this Defendant was a proximate cause of any injury to Patrick Desmond, and consequently, Plaintiffs are not entitled to recover from this Defendant under Georgia law.

SIXTH DEFENSE

This Defendant shows that any injury or damage that Patrick Desmond experienced was the proximate result of unforeseen acts or omissions of other persons which intervened between any alleged act or omission of this Defendant and Plaintiffs' damages.

SEVENTH DEFENSE

This Defendant shows that any injury or damage that Patrick Desmond experienced was solely and proximately the result of personal, individual choices made by Patrick Desmond.

EIGHTH DEFENSE

This Defendant shows that Defendant Narconon International had no relationship with Patrick Desmond nor with Plaintiffs that would give rise to a duty under either a tort or contract theory.

NINTH DEFENSE

Plaintiffs' Complaint fails to state a cause of action for punitive damages against this Defendant and there is not evidence sufficient to create a jury issue on punitive damages against this Defendant. As a defense to Plaintiffs' claims for punitive damages, however, this Defendant also states that any such claim and/or award pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 51-12-5.1 should be denied on the grounds that this would violate the guarantees of the Eighth Amendment to the United States Constitution against excessive fines and penalties and the Constitution of the State of Georgia (Article 1, Section 1, Paragraph 17), the substantive and procedural due process guarantees of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution and the Constitution of the State of Georgia (Article 1, Section 1, Paragraph 1), and the equal protection guarantees of the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution and the Constitution of the State of Georgia (Article 1, Section 1, Paragraph 2) for the following reasons, among others:

1. The statute and the court decisions interpreting the statute, fail to notify individuals of the nature of the offense for which they may be liable for punitive damages, and fail to limit the award of punitive damages to the degree of reprehensibility of the Defendant's misconduct; the disparity between the harm (or potential harm) suffered by the Plaintiff and the punitive damage award; and the difference between the punitive damages awarded by the jury and the civil penalties authorized or imposed in comparable cases;

2. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, fail to adequately inform or instruct judges and juries of the nature of the offenses for which punitive damages can be awarded;

3. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, fail to provide any constitutional standard or means of calculating the amount of punitive damages to be awarded;

4. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, allow persons to repeatedly be put in jeopardy of paying for the same offense;

5. To the extent the award of punitive damages are criminal or quasi-criminal in nature, they are not awarded upon proof beyond a reasonable doubt, contrary to due process of law;

6. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, permit the award of excessive punitive damages without relationship to the public safety, health or welfare said to be served by punitive damages;

7. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, permit the trier of fact to consider the Defendant's net worth, wealth or financial condition in awarding punitive damages or in calculating such an award;

8. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, fail to provide adequate post-verdict processes and standards for review by the trial court and also fail to provide adequate appellate review procedures so as to adequately protect due process rights;

9. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, permit the award of punitive damages without reasonable relationship to the civil or criminal penalties that could be imposed for comparable misconduct in other cases;

10. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, fail to limit the award of punitive damages to what is reasonably required to vindicate this State's legitimate interests in punishment and deterrence for conduct having an impact on the citizens of Georgia;

11. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, fail to ensure the award of punitive damages is both reasonable and proportional to the amount of harm to the Plaintiff and to the general damages recovered;

12. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, do not give cognizance to the comparability of the award to awards in other, similar cases;

13. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, do not provide notice of or means of ascertaining whether, or in what amount, this Defendant might be subject to a penalty of punitive damages for the conduct alleged by Plaintiffs in this case, which lack of notice is compounded by the absence of any adequate or meaningful standards as to the kind of conduct that might subject this Defendant to punitive damages or as to the potential amount of such an award;

14. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, do not provide adequate substantive and procedural safeguards consistent with the criteria set forth in Philip Morris USA v. Williams, 549 U.S. 346 (2007); State Farm Mutual Auto. Ins. Co. v. Campbell, 538 U.S. 408 (2003); Cooper Industries, Inc. v. Leatherman Tool Group, Inc., 532 U.S. 424 (2001); BMW of North America, Inc. v. Gore, 517 U.S. 559 (1996); Pacific Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Haslip, 499 U.S. 1 (1990); Matthews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319 (1976), as to the imposition of a punitive award;

15. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, provide a risk that punitive damages will be imposed retrospectively based on conduct that was not deemed punishable at the time the conduct occurred;

16. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, do not expressly prohibit an award of punitive damages, or determining the amount of an award of punitive damages, in whole or in part, on the basis of invidiously discriminatory characteristics, including the residence, wealth, and corporate status of this Defendant;

17. The statute, and the court decisions interpreting the statute, do not adequately instruct on the limits on punitive damages imposed by the applicable principles of deterrence and punishment.

TENTH DEFENSE

This Defendant does not have sufficient minimum contacts with Georgia so it would not comport with due process for this Court to exercise personal jurisdiction over this Defendant.

ELEVENTH DEFENSE

This Defendant shows that venue as to it is improper in DeKalb County. This Defendant reserves the right, pursuant to O.C.G.A. §14-2-510, to transfer or remove this case to the proper county should the DeKalb County resident-Defendant that is alleged to be the basis for venue be dismissed or otherwise removed from the action.

TWELFTH DEFENSE

Defendant raises the defenses of Patrick Desmond's own negligence (comparative negligence), assumption of the risk and failure to exercise ordinary care for his own safety as defenses that bar or reduce any recovery against this Defendant.

THIRTEENTH DEFENSE

Defendant raises the defense of the Georgia doctrine of charitable immunity to the extent that it may apply to this case.

FOURTEENTH DEFENSE

Pending further investigation and discovery, Defendant raises the defenses of waiver, estoppel and release.
